JeffTR's background is in education. With four, double-emphasis degrees he has taught everyone from pre-K through college in public schools, universities and continuing education facilities. He is also a realty educator to brokers and sales agents learning current and new skills. He is married to a broker associate and realty school educator as well.

Jeff has been working in the Houston real estate market as the go-to guy when a property is not selling as it should for over 10 years, including everything from investment properties to high end homes and commercial properties.

JeffTR operates Jriangle Productions as the lead designer and producer "J" with many years of creating marketing materials, videos, professional photos, communication apps and websites.

JeffTR is as far from a "List It & Leave It" realtor as can possibly be.

Even when a property you are selling or looking for is not a unique situation, you can trust that you will be treated like it is, because JeffTR's clients are special to him and are life long associations. JeffTR may be helping you with real estate but you personally, are his first priority. "Isn't that how it always should be?"
